Sir,

Sub: Water accumulation on cargo and packing Material leading to mosquito breeding and spread of Diseases.

During the visit of PHO officials inside docks on 21.07.2026 the officials have pointed about mosquito breeding in packing material such as plastic, tarpaulin used for covering cargo stored in open yard of Indira Dock and P&V Docks. This mosquito breeding in large quantity is potential for spreading of diseases like Dengue, Chikungunya, and Malaria during the ongoing monsoon season. As per the directives of PHO officials, all concerned CHBs, Vessel Agents are directed to:

- avoid accumulation of water on cargo packing material to prevent mosquito breeding inside docks.
- do the mosquito proofing of the tanks in your jurisdiction of operations.
- remove scrap, old articles, tyres etc. to prevent mosquito breeding in the area.
- Ensure that the fender tide to the barges does not allow accumulation of water.

Yours faithfully,

Mukamble
